

Supporting Details

Name _____

Date _____

A supporting detail is something that gives more information about, or supports, the main idea.

Every summer thunderstorms happen in the United States. Thunderstorms can be very dangerous. First, they have very strong winds. You should take shelter if you notice strong winds. Secondly, storms can have strong bolts of lightning. Avoid standing under trees. Finally, thunderstorms could cause flooding. It's important to get to high ground if you notice a flood. Make sure you are very careful if you ever notice a thunderstorm is close by.

Main idea: Thunderstorms are dangerous.

Supporting detail:

Supporting detail:

Supporting detail:

